

TOWSE ON OMAHA EXHIBIT

Captain Towse, Hawaii's Commissioner to the Omaha Exposition, returned in the Gaelic this morning accompanied by his wife. Asked about matters at the exposition of interest here Captain Towse gave a BULLETIN reporter the following points:

"The Omaha Exposition closes tonight with a grand parade and fireworks and, if the weather is good, there will be between sixty and seventy thousand people present. Tomorrow Secretary Long will begin the work of packing up Hawaii's exhibit. Part of this will be left in the States to be forwarded to Paris should there be an Hawaiian exhibit. This work finished Mr. Logan will proceed to his home in the east, returning to Honolulu in time for Christmas.

"There is no doubt whatever in my mind as to the success of Hawaii's exhibit in Omaha. A large number of travelers and moneyed men will undoubtedly be coaxed to the Islands by what they saw and heard of the country at the exposition. School teachers and children spent a lot of time at Hawaii's exhibit and, through them, a vast lot of information will be distributed throughout the United States.

"The school section of the exhibit was a complete surprise to everybody and the exhibit as a whole undoubtedly dispelled false impressions about Hawaii from the heads of many people. I have heard intelligent people at the exposition ask such questions as: 'Are there any modern buildings in Hawaii?' and 'Have you electric lights there?'

"I think that you will see in the near future the good results of the exhibit. Money has certainly been made for the Islands by it."

CHINESE STUDENTS ON THE DORIC.

Twenty-one Chinese "students" arrived in the Doric yesterday and sought entrance to the islands on certificates which did not comply with the law. Special Agent Brown refused them landing and they went on in the Doric. The certificates were made out in Honolulu and are incomplete and useless for the purposes of landing because of the failure to secure endorsement by officials in China. This makes a total of about 44 students who have been turned away.
